BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

William T. Sherman was a Union Army general during the Civil War. Major W. D. Sanger was an inspector general on Sherman's personal staff in the 15th Army Corps. Sanger was a farmer in Illinois after the war.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Civil War letters from General William T. Sherman, Headquarters, 15th Army Corps near Vicksburg, to Major W.D. Sanger relate to Sherman's recommendation of Sanger for the position of Inspector General. They comment on strategy used during the Siege of Vicksburg; mention efforts to defeat General Joseph E. Johnston at Jackson, Mississippi; condemn Northern pacifist sentiments and the "copperheads"; and mention names and personal qualities of young Federal officers outperforming older, more established men (1863). A broadsheet from Headquarters 15th Army Corps, Department of the Tennessee, Camp on Black River, Mississippi, to the officers and soldiers of the 15th Army Corps provides an account of the military events before and after the Siege of Vicksburg, Nov. 1862-July 1863 (July 27, 1863).

Reconstruction era letters from Sherman at Headquarters, Military Division of the Mississippi, St. Louis, Missouri, outline William T. and Mrs. Ellen E. Sherman's desire to provide for Sherman's favorite Civil War horse, Old Sam, in his old age; and recommend Sanger to General Winfield Scott Hancock in New Orleans, Louisiana. Two letters (1905) from "Anna," apparently the wife of Sanger, to a relative, H. A. Sanger, relate personal information and offer to send H. A. Sanger her husband's letters from General Sherman (1866-1877).
